A Letter from the President
May 2021

Buddha has stated:

"Some chapters sad, some happy, and some exciting.
But if you never turn the page. You will never know what the next chapter holds."

Given the past year, this saying has never been more accurate. We have had a year in which we have had to do things much differently than we ever have – and we have grown because of it. We are more thoughtful about how to help struggling students. We are more flexible because we have had no choice but to adapt. We are patient because we have had to watch things play out, and we have discovered that we can thank you, zoom. We have survived, and, I would say, we have thrived. It is our attitude at the beginning of a difficult task which, more than anything else, affects its successful outcomes ~ William James. We have been successful.

When we least expect it, life gives us challenges that test our courage and willingness to change. Higher education will never be the same, and neither will NOSS. Like you, we have transitioned through the past year and are looking to the future with hope. We are forever changed, and I would say for the better.

As you finish this academic year, remember that you, too, have grown. Remember that you have been that person of strength for students who have struggled, and you have been that person of support for others who are trying to do their best in a difficult situation. Tolerance, kindness, compassion, and empathy have kept us moving forward. As we start our next chapter, I hope that these remain at the forefront of our thoughts. I hope you have an excellent and much-deserved rest over the summer, and I look forward to seeing you all at the conference.
